

PROBABILITY DISTRIBUTIONS

Sometimes I have to check calculations for common distributions (t-distributions, F-distribution, Chi-square distribution). I find this website to be quite useful. The tables in statistical books are often rounded off too much, particularly if you want to use an exact sample size or different probability. It's a lot easier to use than most calculators or tables for critical values or summed areas.

<http://www.statdistributions.com/normal/>

K.I.